The Convict, George Bell.

When word was brought to this city a few days ago that a man named Thor was dead had been cruelly murdered by a man named George Bell, at Nanaimo, the bare announcement of the fact sent a thrill of horror through all who heard it, and the first impulse was that the author of so brutal an outrage must be a fiend in human form. Since then the murderer has been placed upon his trial, been condemned, and now lies in the jail here under sentence of death. The evidence elicited at the trial, which took place at Nanaimo on Thursday last, although conclusive as against the prisoner, instead of showing him to be such a vindictive and blood-thirsty wretch as the deed of which he was the perpetrator would lead people to believe, proves him to have been a quiet, hard-working, sober man, and to look at him no one would ever pick him out from among other men as being a bad character. In stature he is small, well built, has a mild expression of countenance, though evidently a man of strong feeling and great determination of will. We have purposely refrained from making any comments upon this unhappy affair while the trial was pending, but now that the prisoner has taken his trial we deem it not out of place to make a few remarks upon the way the case was conducted and the final result. When a man is charged with a capital offence, and the question of life and death hangs upon the verdict of a jury, ample time should be allowed him to consult counsel and prepare his defence before being placed on trial. In the case of this unfortunate man, Bell, the unseemly haste with which his trial was urged forward must be apparent to every one who has read the report of the proceedings as published in these columns. When Mr. Bishop, as counsel for the prisoner, made application for a postponement of the trial on the grounds that the depositions were voluminous, that he had not had time even to read them, that it was only just the evening before he saw the prisoner for the first time, and was consequently totally unprepared to do his client that justice, in the conduct of the case which he believed he could do more time allowed him, we are at a loss to perceive in what respect justice would have suffered by the delay asked for, or upon what grounds so reasonable a request should have been denied, in a case where the life of an individual was at stake. If the Chief Justice could undertake a case of the kind, and master the whole subject in a single hour, so as to be prepared to do his client justice at the bar of his country, he is probably the only person in this part of the Dominion possessed of that rare ability, which he seemed to think not unreasonable to look for from the learned gentleman who undertook this case. We question if there is any other spot throughout the wide domain of Britain, where the English language is spoken and British law prevails, where a man would be placed upon trial for his life so totally unprepared to defend himself as the prisoner Bell was when forced into the dock at Nanaimo to answer for the crime of murder. We are told he was not allowed time to bring witnesses from a distance even of twelve miles to give evidence in the case. If that be so, who will dare assert that he has been fairly tried and justly convicted? It will doubtless be said there could be no question as to the prisoner's guilt, and that no matter what delay had been granted for preparation and witness the result would have been the same—the prisoner would have been convicted. Granted such would have been the case; the public would at least have had the satisfaction of knowing that the condemned man was given a fair chance for his life—that he had not been tried "red handed," and condemned in a fortnight after the crime was committed, by a jury drawn from a small community where it was most improbable if not absolutely impossible to find a jury of twelve men who had not expressed an opinion on the merits of the case and come to a mental decision upon it before they entered the jury-box or heard the testimony of a single witness. Had the case been tried at Victoria instead of Nanaimo, as Mr. Bishop desired it should, it is possible the verdict might have been, if not different from what it was, at least in some respects more favorable for the prisoner than it now is. We have no desire to be considered the apologist of any man who has imbrued his hands in the blood of his fellow, but there are circumstances connected with the case of this unfortunate man, Bell, which cannot but challenge public sympathy—and if homicide can be justified on any ground whatever, surely it should be in a case like this. What greater wrong can one man do to another than the deceased man, Dadson, did to Bell? He invaded the man's home, dishonored his wife, broke up his family circle, and robbed him of all that was near and dear to him on earth. In all Nanaimo there was not a more peaceable, industrious, sober, honest citizen than George Bell—facts to which every witness bore testimony on his trial—whose ambition was to provide a comfortable homestead for his little family, and for the attainment of which he worked early and late. Is it any wonder, then, that when he made the discovery that his wife had been seduced from her marital allegiance to him, and that his next door neighbor (Dadson) was the seducer, a feeling of desperation should possess him, and that while laboring under a fit of temporary insanity he should destroy the author of his misery? The theory of law is that no man has a right to take the law into his own hands, because it is assumed that the law provides adequate protection for every one, and guarantees to every man security for life and the undisturbed enjoyment of his property. If a man assaults another on the street, or robs him of his purse, or burns down his house, or vilifies his character, the law is either case provides a remedy adequate to the offence; but a scoundrel may invade the sanctity of that man's house, seduce his wife and ruin his family, and he may appeal in vain to the courts of law for satisfaction for the wrong done him. We do not say Bell did right to take the law in his own hands—far better for him had he not done so—but in a case like this where the law is absolutely defective, where the chances are that had Bell sought satisfaction in court he would have got less from Dadson for having robbed him of his wife than if he stole his pig, it does offer some palliation for the offence for which he has been condemned to death. No one who has read the evidence on Bell's trial, free from prejudice for or against the prisoner, will, we think, come to any other conclusion than that he was absolutely insane when the murder was committed. We know nothing about the man save what we have gathered from the report of his trial, and never saw him till brought here in chains; but nevertheless we think him entitled to a large measure of public sympathy in this his hour of dire trial. The deed he committed is mournful to contemplate—let it be a warning to others—but probably there are not a few men who would have done as he did under similar provoking circumstances.

POLITICAL.

We are authorised to state that Mr. DiCosmos will be a candidate for the House of Commons at the next election.

BIRTH.

At Victoria, on the 13th July, the wife of Henry C. Courtney, Esq., of a son.

Bute Inlet.—Progress of the Survey.—Return of the Boxer.

H.M.S. Boxer arrived at Esquimalt on yesterday morning at 9 o'clock, from Bute Inlet, with Mr. Marcus Smith on board. For the following interesting report we are indebted to a friend:

Left Esquimalt on Saturday the 6th July, with Mr. O'Reilly on board; left Capt. Delacourte at San Juan. Anchored on Sunday the 7th at St. James Island and visited Camp Y. found all well there; proceeded the same day to Waddington harbor, arriving there in the evening; visited the depot of survey parties W and X— for which is used one of the old houses built by the Waddington party; one of the former was arrested—as will be remembered—on his way down. A meeting was held at Quesnel towards procuring funds to be paid to the Canon Creek party; the requisite amount has been subscribed. The Sentinel urges the opening of the trail to Harvey Creek. From the Bonner claim, Burns' Creek, 12 or were taken out from a hole that would be covered by a ten foot set. The "smaller" parties of consequence—Visitors from all parts visited Williams Creek to be present at the First and Fourth of July. There were sports and games of the usual character, on both days, together with theatrical performance, fireworks, horseracing, &c., &c. McKay's Cariboo Charlie, (on Dominion Day) won the Dominion Purse; Manife's Dexter took the Cariboo Purse; Dixon's Polly, the Scrub Race, and Leightons. The January, the Slow Race. On the Fourth, the President's Purse was taken by Cariboo Charlie; the People's by Cobraline Flora; the Scrub Race by the same owner's "bones." Dominion Day was duly celebrated at Soda Creek.

Mainland Summary.

LOWER FRASER.

There is a great scarcity of labor among the farming districts; $30 and $40 per month are offered with board. The Onward has been undergoing some slight repairs. The Brothers of the New Westminster Orange Lodge met together at their lodgeroom on the Twelfth, and spent a pleasant evening. Revs. Russ, Clarkson and Crosby have returned from a canoe trip made to Skamishmo. They report a progressive and prosperous settlement. Two schoolhouses are about to be established. The settlers have contributed 200 days' labor to open a road to Whatcom, and await with anxiety the trail to enable them to communicate with the Fraser. We may tell them that our Government call for tenders for the work. The N. W. public school is in operation at that place to-day. Barrard Inlet telegraph is again in order. There are but two vessels at the Inlet—the Isaac Rich and the Rockwood.

CAMBIO.

The state of the polls was declared at Richfield on the 3d, the return from Omneka having arrived; Barnston, 132; Pearson, 1; Barlow, 23; Mr. Park, council on behalf of Pearson, will contest the legal election. Stevenson and Kennedy will be the lower country; the former was arrested—as will be remembered—on his way down. A meeting was held at Quesnel towards procuring funds to be paid to the Canon Creek party; the requisite amount has been subscribed. The Sentinel urges the opening of the trail to Harvey Creek. From the Bonner claim, Burns' Creek, 12 or were taken out from a hole that would be covered by a ten foot set. The "smaller" parties of consequence—Visitors from all parts visited Williams Creek to be present at the First and Fourth of July. There were sports and games of the usual character, on both days, together with theatrical performance, fireworks, horseracing, &c., &c. McKay's Cariboo Charlie, (on Dominion Day) won the Dominion Purse; Manife's Dexter took the Cariboo Purse; Dixon's Polly, the Scrub Race, and Leightons. The January, the Slow Race. On the Fourth, the President's Purse was taken by Cariboo Charlie; the People's by Cobraline Flora; the Scrub Race by the same owner's "bones." Dominion Day was duly celebrated at Soda Creek.

OMNEKA.

Mr. J. A. Gardiner, Returning Officer, for Omneka, left Mansen river on Sunday the 23d June, bringing the election returns from that district and arrived at Fort St. James on Friday evening, the 28th. Left there next day morning, and arrived at Williams Creek on Sunday morning about 5 o'clock, making the trip from Mansen river to Quesnel in six days. The whole trip was made on foot, with the exception of 25 miles from Fort St. James to Stewart's Ferry, and the road followed was what is known as the Montana trail, cut last year by Nation lake. On the lower part of the trip the Telegraph trail was used.

GERMANES CREEK.—Smith & Sterling, Girod & Guichon, Cohen & Hoffman, and J. M. Bohannon, were doing business on this creek. The Post Co. were taking on from $20 to $2 per day to the hand; it will take two years to work the channel out. The Giscome is making $10 to $12 per day to the hand. The Black Jack Co. is ground sluicing and setting up sluices, and expect to wash up well. The Point Co., on south side of Black Jack gulch, is paying $20 per day to the hand. Further up the creek James Welsh is cutting a ditch to his claim, which is expected to pay well. James M. Corbett, and T. J. Corrigan, are turning the creek just below the town, and have obtained good results. Ben Jose and John McMichael & Co., had cut a ditch and got water on the wash, the ditch is from the deep part of their ground, supposed to be good. Stocker and others in the Cornish claim have taken up ground, adjoining Welsh, known to be good. Above the canyon, C. Murphy and A. Thorpe are making $20 to $25 per day. L. Riley, Johnson, and — Payet, are making from $8 to $15 per day. The St. Lawrence, Guichon and other companies are working at high wages. Kearn, Reed & Co. are making $20 to $25 per day to the hand. From this claim to the Tobagan Co., other companies are working with fair success. McEwan & Co., are doing well. The Tobagan Co., is making 1 oz., and upwards, to the hand per day.

STAR CREEK.—Red's claim is paying well, and other companies expect to do equally well when water is obtained. Many companies on this creek are commencing to take out gold, but Mr. G. was not acquainted with their names.

MANSO CREEK.—The Duncans were getting their sawmill up, and all the work in the vicinity had got to work but had not commenced washing. James Orr & Co., had started work on the blue lead.

DISCOVERY FLAT.—On Discovery Flat the claims would all have been at work had it not been for the poisoning accident, most of those poisoned belonging to claims situated there. When working, these claims paid from 2 to 4 oz. per day.

ON THE RIVER.—Many companies are bringing ditches to the beaches, which are altogether unworked, but from which good prospects have been obtained.

SKELTON CREEK.—Parties working on this creek have not yet succeeded in getting down, but continue working with good hopes of success.

LOER CREEK.—Some claims on this creek paid better than any others in Omneka last year, and the different companies are all at work and washing by this time. Peter Toy and Wm. Crust have gone down Peace river 400 miles to Rocky Mountain portage. From thence they will proceed to Larder river, running into Mackenzie, which they will prospect this season. John Bryant and others are prospecting from the Rocky Mountain portage southwards on the eastern slope.

GRASS CREEK.—Mr. Fitzgerald, Gold Commissioner, and Mr. D. Ballance, Clerk of Records, were both in good health. The officials were much pressed with work. Mr. Power was called in, who did his best to relieve him, and had him removed to the French Hospital. The attack completely prostrated Mr. Fitzgerald.

THE FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT.—TWO MRS KILLED.

Two men were crushed to death on Wednesday, the 3d inst., by a cave in the McLaughlin Co. (hydrocal) claim. The names of the men were Colin Chisholm and Roland Rowland. Mr. Chisholm, who was much respected by those who were acquainted with him, came to this country from P. E. Island, and must have been about 50 years of age. Rowland was a native of North Wales. The funeral of the two was thus suddenly taken away, for their death must have been in circumstances, took place on Thursday morning 4th July. Rowland's remains were taken to the burial ground at Cameronton for interment, and those of Chisholm to the Catholic cemetery at Richfield. — Sentinel 6th.

MR. VEREYDUN, architect, was seized with a severe apoplectic fit while in his office yesterday afternoon. He was discovered suffering by Inspector Bowden and Mr. F. Padgen. Dr. Power was called in, who did his best to relieve him, and had him removed to the French Hospital. The attack completely prostrated Mr. Vereyden.
